LITTLE GIRL CRUSHED BY A TRUCK

IN THE SHOPPING DISTRICT. Guarded by Her Newfoundland Dog, She Was on the Way to St. Francis Xavier's Church to Have Her Father's Prayerbook

Blessed-Died in the New York Hospital. Mary O'Brien, 9 years old, left her home at 181 West Twentieth street yesterday afternoon with her Newfoundland dog Nero as guard, to go to St. Francis Xavier's Church in West Sixteenth street. She took with her a prayerbook that she had given to her father on Christmas in order that she might have it blessed by Father Van Rensselaer. For the past three years Nero had been accustomed to take such walks with his little mistress. It was his daily duty to escort her to the Convent of the Sacred Heart in West Seventeenth street, when the girl went to school and to call for her when school was dismissed in the afternoon.

Just as she reached the corner of Eighteenth atreet and Sixth avenue, a truck driven by Peter Funk of 263 Avenue B swung into the stopped, but the child became confused and was knocked down. The front wheel of the truck passed over her chest and turned her wheel also passed over her body, tracturing her spine. The avenue was crowded with horror at the sight. Funk pulled up his horses and climbed down to the street. He wept as he picked the little girl up and laid her down in the truck. Then he climbed to his seat again and started the horses, intending to drive to New York Hospital. At Fifteenth street he saw Policeman Rohrs of the West Thirtieth street station, Wagons drawn upagainst the curb prevented Funk from driving up to the policeman, but he shouted to him what had happened and Rohrs ran around the corner to the hospital entrance.

Source of the house of the police hand and from the corner to the hospital entrance. Robrs carried the little girl into the emergency ward of the hospital and Funk waited outside for the policeman to arrest him.

Nero had followed Funk to the hospital door, and as soon as he saw the little girl taken into the building he started back home on a run. He scratched at the door, and barked and howled until he was admitted. Then he began to rush through the house searching for Mrs. O'Brien. He found her on the upper floor of the house. The dog took hold of her gown with his teeth and pulled her toward the door. He whined, and finally he howled. Mrs. O'Brien became alarmed and, putting on her hat, left the house, preceded by N-ro. They had almost reached the hospital, when they met a messenger who had started to inform Mrs. O'Brien of the accident.

A faw minutes after the injured girl had been taken into the emergency ward she regained consciousness.

"I am Mary O'Brien." she said to the surgeon.
"I wish you would please send for my mama and papa as I am alraic! I am going to die. We

"I am Mary O'Brien," she said to the surgeon.
"I wish you would please send for my mama and papa as I am afraid I am going to die. We live at 131 West Twentieth street."

Mary was still conscious when her mother arrived, but she became unconscious again a moment afterward and within five minutes she was dead. Mrs. O'Brien was taken back to her home in a cab. She said last night that she did not know what would happen to Nero. She said that he was beyond control. He refused to eat and showed that he was fractic with grief at the death of his infatress. Thomas O'Brien, the father of the child, is a buyer for R. J. Hall, as furniture dealer of West Twenty-third street.

Funk was locked up in the West Thirtieth street station on a charge of homicide, He said last night that the girl had run squarely under the feet of the horses before he could check them.

$100,000 FOR MISS GILKINSON. The Gift of Father Ward, Her Guardian

By a decision of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court in Brooklyn, handed down on Wednesday, Miss Maud Gilkinson, formerly of Pittsburg but now living in Brooklyn, an orphan and without near relatives, comes into possession of about $100,000 in stock of the Third Avenue Railroad Company. Miss Gilkinson was the ward of the late Father Ward, for many years pastor of the Church of St. Charles Borromeo in Brooklyn. who died leaving a considerable fortune to his church and charitable institutions. Father Ward formed a strong attachment for the young orphan committed to his care by her parents and, many times before his death, told her that, when he died, she would be wall provided for. One day he told her that he had decided not to leave her anything by will, but that he had put certain securities in a safe deposit box, and that these securities were to be hers when he died. One key to the box, which was taken in Miss Gilkinson's name, was given to Miss Gilkinson and the priest kept the other.

When Father Ward died, Miss Gilkinson found that the securities consisted of 100 shares of the stock of the Third Avenue Railroad Company. She took the stock to the company soffice to have it transferred to ner name. The company found that Miss Gilkinson had nothing to show hat the stock was hers, and refused to transfer it without the approval of the Rev. Father Thomas r. Duffy, the executor of Father Ward's estate. Father Duffy refused to consent to the transfer, holding that, under Father Ward's will, all his property had been left to his church and to charitable institutions. son's name, was given to Miss Gilkinson and the was Father Ward's intention to give the stock to Miss Gilkinson and the transfer. Justice Dickey appointed former justice Roger A. Pryor to take testimony and report. The referee reported that it was quite evident from the testimony that it was Father Ward's intention to give the stock to Miss Gilkinson and that she ought to have it Justice Dickey approved the report, but the case was appealed to the Appellate Division, which sustained the lower court. It was said yesterday that Father Duffy will not take his contest to the Court of Appeals, and the railroad company will transfer the stock to Miss Gilkinson. The stock closed yesterday at 1004. closed yesterday at 100's.

GOT DIAMONDS ON MEMORANDUM Adolph Horowitz Held for Obtaining Gems by Fraud.

Adolph Horowitz, a diamond broker, of 13 East 119th street, was arraigned in the Centre street police court yesterday on the complaint of Julius Lentz, a wholesale diamond dealer at 108 Fulton street, who charges him with obtaining a number of diamonds from him by fraud. Lentz said that on Jan. 23 he gave Horowitz a quantity of unset gems, valued at $1.321, for which the prisoner said he had a ready customer. Lentz had had dealings with Horowitz before and asked for no security. Horowitz before and asked for no security.

Afterward, the complainant said, he was unable to find Horowitz, and he reported the matter to Police Headquarters. Horowitz was arrested yesterday morning at 119th street and Third avenue by Central Office Detective Millmore. Horowitz had a package of diamonds valued at over $10,000 on his person when he was arrested, but Lentz was not able to identify any of the gems as his property. The prisoner said in court that he had sold the jewels he had received on memorandum for Lentz, but had not received the money for them as yet. Magistrate Cornell held the prisoner in $2,000 bail for further examination.

EUCHRE FOR A CHURCH'S BENEFIT. Prize Card Party in the Parochial Hall of

NEW BRUNSWICE, N. J., Feb. 10.-A progress sive euchre party was held in Parochial Hall last night with the approval of the Sacred Heart Roman Catholic Church, of which the Rev. James Devine is pastor. It was announced James Devine is pastor. It was announced from the pulpit last Sunday, and Father Devine was among those present. He did not play. There were a dozen prizes contributed by local merchants and the proceeds, amounting probably to $100, went to the church treasury. Last night's party was such a success that other entertainments are projected. Any one in or out of the parish may play upon purchasing a fifty-cent ticket.

TRANSFERS ON THE B. R. T. The Railroad Commissioners Told Why

Their Order Has Not Been Obeyed. UTICA, N. Y., Feb. 10.-To-day, at Bagg's Hotel in this city, the State Board of Railroad Commissioners heard argument in the matter of application of Brooklynites for relief from he system of transfers in vogue on the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company's lines. It was expected that Clinton R. Rossiter. President of the company, would be present, but in his absence Col. T. S. Williams and Charles Collin presented the argument of the railroad company. Mr. Collin was heard first. On the quesion of the order of the Railroad Commission that the company revive the system of transfers in vogue prior to last November, Mr. Collin said the Rapid Transit Company would neither accept nor refuse such order. He asked to have the matter put over until a fair trial had been given to the present system. He added:

"The board will find my verbal answer just the same as the written answer to the order which we have already filed. The combination of the two lines gives an accommodation to a vastly greater number of people than the oldstreet from the avenue. Mary and the dog style transfer system did. The effect of the consolidation was practically that of changing suddenly started to run across the street ahead | a ten-cent fare into a five-cent fare. We insist of the horses. She ran directly into them and that we not only gave the people a more expeditious method of traffle, while we also reduced the fare. That is the point which we over so that she lay on her face. The rear take for the basis of our argument. Of the seven orders issued by your commission on Dec. 30, the company has accepted six. Some were severe, and I might say almost unjust, yet the company has already completed most of them and will soon complete the others. The other, while we as yet desire to neither accept nor refuse it, is that of optional transfers. We want to take time, if your commission will allow, to see what we ought to do. We desire to neither accept nor deny it till we see if the present system proves a success. Col. Williams. Secretary of the company, has prepared a detailed set of figures showing the result of the change. This demonstrates that Brooklyn trafflee on the south side is carried on at a loss. Many of the lines were first constructed as steam railroads and were designed exclusively for summer excursion traffle. Then they had to be sold out two or three times by forcelosuse because they were unsuccessful. It was only with the introduction of electricity as a propelling power that the Rapid Transit Company was able to take the roads. We believe we did a good thing in the change of Nov. I, and if we dein't, time will show it and we will be willing to rectify our mistake.'

Col. Williams concluded the argument by saying that his company was not antagonistic to the Commissioners, nor was the company acting under any antagonism to the people women shoppers and they screamed with were severs, and I might say almost unjust, saying that his company was not antagonistic to the Commissioners, nor was the company acting under any antagonism to the people who complain of the present system. He presented fluures showing the loss of the three South Brooklyn lines for the past three months. The total cost of operating the lines was $21,000, while the total receipts were only $8.013.

The Commissioners took the papers and rent into executive session. After brief de-The Commissioners took the papers and went into executive session. After brief deliberation they said that a conclusion had been reached, but the members refused to make known the decision. The reason for so doing was that they had not time to prepare their decision as they wished to present it, although they had settled upon a finding in the matter. The members of the commission left at once for Albany, where they will make public their decision to-morrow.

HOUSE 260 YEARS OLD BURNED.

It Was Once the Handsomest Place Be tween New York and New Haven. PORT CHESTER, Feb. 10 .- A colonial mansion which was one of the oldest landmarks in Westchester county, was burned early this morning. Since the house was given up for iving purposes a few years ago tramps had made it a rendezvous. Late last night some women passed it and heard the sounds of curses and fighting. It is supposed that the vagrants set fire to the building. The flames were discovered by John Smith, a hotelkeeper, who sent an alarm to the East Port Chester Fire Department, but for some reason it failed to respond. The house and a barn near by were burned to the ground.

The house was built in 1840 by John Banks, who received a grant of land along the Byram river from King James I. of England. It was a two-story building made of hewn wood with small windows and loopholes for protection against the Indians. In its day it was the most pretentious dwelling between New York and New Haven. It was one of the few houses at that time that contained the luxury of a bath. The tub was made of a log hollowed out and was so large that Mr. Banks could not get it through the doors, so he let it down through the roof before he put the shingles on. The old building passed through many hands and a few years ago it was abandoned for living purposes and sold to the Byram Land Improvement Company. One of its owners many years ago was a Mr. Reynolds. His grand-daughter, Mrs. Vernon H. Brown, was born in it. were discovered by John Smith, a hotelkeeper, Col. A. T. Andreas, a publisher, died yesterday at his home in New Rochelle, N. Y. He was stricken with paralysis about three months ago. Afterward his arm, which had been pierced by a builet in the Civil War, began to pain him and became so inflamed that he was forced to have it amputated. The operation was performed in St. Luke's Hoopital last week, and the shock was so severe that he never recevered from it. He was born in Orange county, N. Y., in 1838. He was one of the founders of Davenport, Iowa. At the outbreak of the Civil War he enlisted in the Twelith Illinois Infantry and was made quartermaster. Later he was premoted to be Commissary of Subsistence of his division. He served on the staff of Gen. Corse. At the close of the war he began the publication of county atlases and maps. Just before the World's Fair in Chicago Co. Andreas went into a scheme which included the building of numerous small hotels. In this he lost a fortune. He is said to have originated a class of war panoramas. He did most of the painting himself from personal recollections of battle scenes. At one time he had panoramas in operation in five cities. In this business he made considerable money. He leaves a widow and two daughters. and two daughters.

The controversy over the professional swimming championship that has been going on between the friends of Alex Meffert, instructor of the K. A. C., and Prof. Gus Sundstrom of the N. Y. A. C. is not likely to end in a match be-N. Y. A. C. is not likely to end in a maten between the two men. The latter denies the authenticity of the challenge sent in his name and in a talk with a reporter of The Sun explained the situation fully. Sundstrom said that there is now no recognized professional champion at the game. Five years ago McCluskey, who was then going to England to swim a match for the world's championship against J. Nuttall, challenged Sundstrom to decide the American championship. Negotiations were pending for a match when the matter was brought to the attention of the Board of Governors of the N. Y. A. C. The board told Sundstrom that he could not enter a public competition while in the employ of the club. Since then there has been no competition for the championship.

The action of the N. Y. A. C. Board puts Sundstrom out of the race. The instructor of the "winged foot" club points out that in any event McGert cannot be considered the professional champion as he has never swam in a contest for money. He suggests that a one-mile race be instituted to take place annually for the championship, in which each of the contestants shall put up $25 for a sweepstake. Such a race would draw swimmers from every part of the country and would induce the promoters to offer a perpetual challenge cup that would at once be recognized as the championship trophy.

The Weather.

One of the most decided changes in the temperature on record was noted in the Northwest yester-day. In the twenty-four hours ending 8 A. M. Saturday the temperature at Havre, northern Montana, jumped from 22 degrees below zero to 34 degrees above. It was 10 to 30 degrees warmer throughout all the Northwest and central States. There was another storm forming to the north of Montana and coming down over the State, which accounted for the gie it change of conditions. A storm was coming north from the Gulf of Mexico over Alabama. Run was falling to Louisiana, Plorida, Alabama and Georgia, and threatening weather extended northward over the Tennessee and Ohio valleys: it was also cloudy and threatening in the middle Atlantic and New England States and lake regions, with light snow in Michigan, Wisconsin and eastern Minnesota: elsewhere it was fair.

In this 17 the day was generally cloudy; wind northwest, average velocity eighteen miles an hour; average humidity 83 per cent.; barometer, corrected to read to sea level, at 8 A. M., 30.38; 3 P. Bules, and of Some Unfair Ones. TO THE EDITOR OF THE SUN-Sir: As racing amateur on Long Island Sound I wish through your columns to awaken the interest of all yachtsmen to the fact that too much and too hasty legislation by the L. I. Yacht Racing Union is injuring the racing here.

This union was intended to promote and foster the sport of yacht racing on the Sound, and undoubtedly would do so if it were carefully and wisely managed. The facts show that the reverse is the case. For instance, in the 21-foot class of raceabouts: This class originated in Massachusetts as a 21-foot knockabout, was a keel boat, 5 feet draught, 21 feet long on the load water line, 31 feet long over all, limited to 500 square feet of sail area, 7 feet minimum beam, &c. This gave a good. wholesome boat, easily handled, non-capsizable and one affording good sport. The only objection raised was that in moderate to light breezes it was slow, so the sail area was increased to 600 square feet with a minimum of 3,500 pounds of outside ballast and these boats were called raceabouts. In the summer of 1847 several of them, Mongoose, Indianola and Mariposa, came here and were raced under the Eastern Association rules. The following winter the L. I. Yacht Racing Union, after considerable work, amended these rules, making the limit of draught 5 feet instead of 6 feet, calling for a heavier construction, more freeboard and then, to encourage the centreboard type of boat, made a reduction from the 3,500 pounds of outside ballast of the pounds for every linch of beam over 7 feet, also changing the sail measurement of the jib from the actual sail contained in the jib, as the Eastern rule called for, to 80 per cent, of the forward triangle, then at the finish was added a clause saying that any raceabout launched previous to the adoption of these rules accepted by the Eastern Association shall be admitted here.

This year, 1900, they reseind these rules made one year ago and adout the rules made by the Eastern Association shall be admitted here.

This year, 1900, they reseind these rules made one year ago and adout the rules made by the Eastern Association this year. These rulescall for the boat and entire outfit to weigh not less than 5,900 bounds, the sail area shall be followed the rules while he made the sail of 21 feet, measured without crew. Last year the limit of 21 feet was with crew aboard, a difference of 450 pounds in favor of this year's boat. These changes legislate the 1818 boats out of any chance of winning. This is most unfair and before long will kill the sport.

Racing rules should be most carefully thought out by recing yachtsmen, not by theorists nor by men merely interested in the sport through personal gain in any shape or manner, and when adopted by the clubs should stand unchanged for at wholesome boat, easily handled, non-capsizable and one affording good sport. The only objection raised was that in moderate to

BABY'S FOOD

DEAR MR. COOK:

When I Drs began to give my baby Cook'. Flaged Rice she was very sick, and her stomach very weak, so I started giving ner your food, very weak at first. I put one cup of Cook's Flaked Rice in three pints of boiling water and cooked five minutes. As she grew stronger I increased the Flaked Rice till now I put two cups of Flated Rice in two quarts of slightly salted boiling water and I do not strain it, as she likes it about as thick as cream. I cannot say too much in favor of Cook's Flaked Rice as a prifect food for bab es. Yours truly, MRS. V. ASH.
23 Portland St., Cambridge, Mass.

Letters like this are being received daily from grateful mothers. Cook's Flaked like is not only the best food for baby but for every member of the family. It's delicious as a breakfast porridge (without cooking). Makes a rice pudding far superior to ordinary rice, etc. Your grocer sell's Cook's Flaked Rice.

New York A. C. Defeats the Hockey Club by One Goal to Nothing.

The New York A. C. and Hockey Club of New York played off a tie game at the St. Nicholas Rink last night. The N. Y. A. C. won by I goal to 0. It was a hotly contested game and each side indulged in rough play. Howard made the goal for the New Yorks about eight minutes after the game began. He scored from a mix-up. In the second half Russell and S. Phillips were suspended for rough play for five minutes. The line-up follows:

Berkeley School defeated Cutler School at hockey by the scere of 2 goals to 1 at the St. Nicho'as Skating Rink yesterday afternoon. It was the semi-final round in the New York interscholastic series, and the result was one of the biggest surprises in interscholastic circles this season. Cutler School, the three-time champion, has been looked upon as having its rivals outclassed, but in this instance the unexpected happened. The Cutler boys played the better game, their team work and passing being excellent, but Homes at goal was a disappointment and his weak display enabled the Berkeleys to win. The victory, however, was only achieved after the hardest kind of a battle. Both teams were more than auxious to win, which brought about a good deal of roughness, but no siugging was indulged in. Basketball Notes. In the "Gym" of the Twenty-sixth ward branch of the Y. M. C. A. at East New York yesterday morning the St. Paul School team defeated the Junior five of the Y. M. C. A. The St. Paul boys were very clever in throwing goals, and this, mided by good team work, won for them an easy victory by 12 to 5. team work, won for them an easy victory by 12 to 5. The teams of the Manual Training High School of Brooklyn and the Jersey City Public High School onet in a championship match of the Metropolitan Public High School League at the old Thirteenth Regiment armory, Flatbush avenue and Hanson place, Brooklyn, yesterday. The Brooklyn boys were too much for the Jersey lads, who gamely came over to play the match with only little practice and on short notice. The score was 40 to 1 in favor of Manual Training.

Gossip of the Ring. Gossip of the Ring.

Chicago, Feb. 10.—Frank Erne, the lightweight champion, bested Chicago Jack Daly in a six-round bout at the Star Theatre last night. It was a fast affair from start to missi, and although Erne failed to knock out his man, he outpointed him all the way. Daly was the stronger of the pair. Fefore the principal bout was put on the following preliminaries were decided: Joe Sherlock knocked out Harry Klipper in the third round, Buddy Ryan got the decision over Eddie Carroll in the sixth round, Morris Rauch knockel out Gorge Brown in the fifth round and Ole Oisen decested Charley Masses.
